Scott Rogers Named C. Thomas Olivo Award Recipient for 2015

BIG RAPIDS, MI - The NOCTI Board of Trustees awards the 2015 C. Thomas Olivo Outstanding Service Award to Scott Rogers, Assistant Director at York County School of Technology, in York, Pennsylvania.

The C. Thomas Olivo Outstanding Service Award was established in 1980 in honor of C. Thomas Olivo, one of NOCTI's founders. This prestigious award is one of two awards distributed each year by NOCTI to support the career and technical education (CTE) community. The purpose of the award is to recognize test coordinators, administrators, state or national policy makers, or CTE association leaders for their work in advocating an equitable assessment system which uses technical assessment data to improve instruction.

As the assistant director, Scott is responsible for preparing over 300 students each year for the NOCTI written and performance credentials. In order to ensure that students are prepared for the exams, Scott has created an efficient and well-organized process. The process starts at the beginning of each year with a thorough review of the previous year's test results to identify areas for improvement. Scott, along with the instructors, then create learning objectives for the upcoming year to improve the program and increase student success rates. Scott's leadership and resolve to increase student assessment success rates at York County School of Technology is commendable. Scott has proven to be an outstanding CTE leader!

Dr. David Thomas, Director of York County School of Technology said, "Mr. Rogers is the most dedicated, hardest working individual that I have the privilege of working with. He is always focused on creating a positive environment for opportunity and student success." Dr. Lee Burket, Director of Pennsylvania's Bureau Career-Technical Education said, "Scott exhibits energy and commitment to the professional community and CTE students." Several CTE professionals also shared their admiration of Scott's leadership, dedication, and support of CTE.

NOCTI congratulates Scott on receiving this national honor and applauds his commitment and dedication to CTE!
